Lairs run in rows north to south with the gravestones facing east or west.

The stones are identified by a prefix of OL, denoting Old Broughty Ferry Burying Ground, followed by a letter for the row in which the stone is located and a two figure number for the stone. Rows lettered A to M run from west to east and then numbers run from north to south. Row N is a jumble of stones against the south wall on the west side of the gardeners store at the entrance.
