Each stone is identified, first, by two letters, SM, denoting Strathmartine Kirkyard, followed by a single letter and two numbers. The single letter identifies the row containing the stone, while the number identifies the position of the stone in the row.

In Strathmartine Kirkyard, rows A and B run along the northern boundary wall, A to the west of the entrance gate and B to the east. Rows C to R are laid out in the general Scottish style of the rows running on a north-south axis, with C at the western end of the graveyard. "Row" S is the enclosed Ogilvie burial plot in the centre of the graveyard.
